Story Line/Notes: The episode features Rotshennonni Two-Axe, a young student at Dawson College hoping to have a career in the sciences. He and his classmate, Kayla, noticed they were the only two Indigenous students studying sciences at the CEGEP and wanted to help make it more accessible to their Indigenous peers. They created an initiative called IndigiSTEM at Dawson that welcomes Indigenous students from all faculties to participate in science activities like moose heart dissections and visits to the planetarium. The activities always merge western science with Indigenous knowledge, bringing the students’ cultures into their education.

Location(s): Rotshennonni Two-Axe’s family home, Onake Paddling Club, Karonhianónhna School and the “Kahnawà:ke” community signs.
